

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY · PEOPLE, CULTURE AND BELONGING

Manager Voyage.

One standard for every Vanderbilt manager. The same path from the first day, the same four expectations of every manager, and the same measure 90 days later.

The Vanderbilt Manager Standard: four expectations.

Four expectations of every manager, every week, the same in every business unit. Adapted from Gary Yukl's research on effective leadership behavior: his four categories, his fifteen behaviors, in Vanderbilt's words. The program teaches it, the assessment measures it, and the cohort practices it.

01

Get the work done through the team, not around it.

Yukl: task-oriented behavior. Plans it, says what good looks like, checks work before it is due, fixes the cause when something breaks twice. Measured by assessment statements 1 to 3.

02

Take care of the people on the team.

Yukl: relations-oriented behavior. Listens and helps, grows people, thanks them for specific work, hands over decisions and not just tasks. Statements 4 to 6.

03

Make the work better, not only keep it going.

Yukl: change-oriented behavior. Explains the why before a change lands, describes where the team is going, lets people try, looks back. Statements 7 and 8.

04

Connect the team to the rest of Vanderbilt.

Yukl: external behavior. Knows the people the team depends on, watches for what is coming, speaks up for the team with facts and options. Statements 9 and 10.

The standard, continued.

Fifteen behaviors inside the four expectations, Yukl's fifteen. Ten assessment statements, each one a behavior written as a weekly action, scored by expectation. One path from Day 1 to Day 60. Measured before the program and at 90 days.

WHERE THE STANDARD COMES FROM, AND HOW THE ASSESSMENT MEASURES IT

The standard is adapted from Gary Yukl's taxonomy of leadership behavior (Academy of Management Perspectives, 2012). The four expectations are his four categories, the fifteen behaviors are his fifteen, and each of the ten assessment statements is one behavior written as something a manager does in a normal week. Five behaviors have no statement of their own (problem solving, developing, envisioning change, encouraging innovation, networking), so the ten statements sample the standard and the course teaches all fifteen. A self-reflection tool adapted for Vanderbilt, not a validated Yukl instrument, and not a performance evaluation.

EXPECTATION	YUKL'S CATEGORY	THE FIFTEEN BEHAVIORS	ASSESSMENT STATEMENTS
01 Get the work done	Task-oriented	Planning, clarifying, monitoring, problem solving	1 Priorities, 2 Expectations, 3 Checking work
02 Take care of your people	Relations-oriented	Supporting, developing, recognizing, empowering	4 Supporting, 5 Recognizing, 6 Empowering
03 Make things better	Change-oriented	Advocating change, envisioning change, encouraging innovation, facilitating collective learning	7 Leading change, 8 Looking back
04 Connect your team	External	Networking, external monitoring, representing	9 Watching ahead, 10 Representing

02 PROGRAM OVERVIEW

What Manager Voyage is.

A manager's first 60 days shape how they will lead for years, and until now Vanderbilt had no common standard for that period. Manager Voyage provides one. Courses are assigned automatically in Oracle Learning from the HR record, and the dashboard shows each manager what to do now, what comes next, and who to call.

4,600+
Staff led by Vanderbilt managers

500+
Vanderbilt managers

39

60
Days covered by the initial path

01 · REQUIRED

Compliance

DAYS 1 TO 60

The legal and policy courses a manager must complete, matched to the state where their team works.

02 · STRONGLY RECOMMENDED

Foundations

DAYS 1 TO 60 · COURSE BY DAY 7

What Vanderbilt expects of a manager: an assessment, a 35-minute course, and short modules in four tracks.

03 · OPTIONAL BUT RECOMMENDED

Four-week cohort

AFTER DAY 60 · QUARTERLY

Four weeks of guided practice with the manager's own team, for one hundred managers each quarter.

04 · ALWAYS AVAILABLE

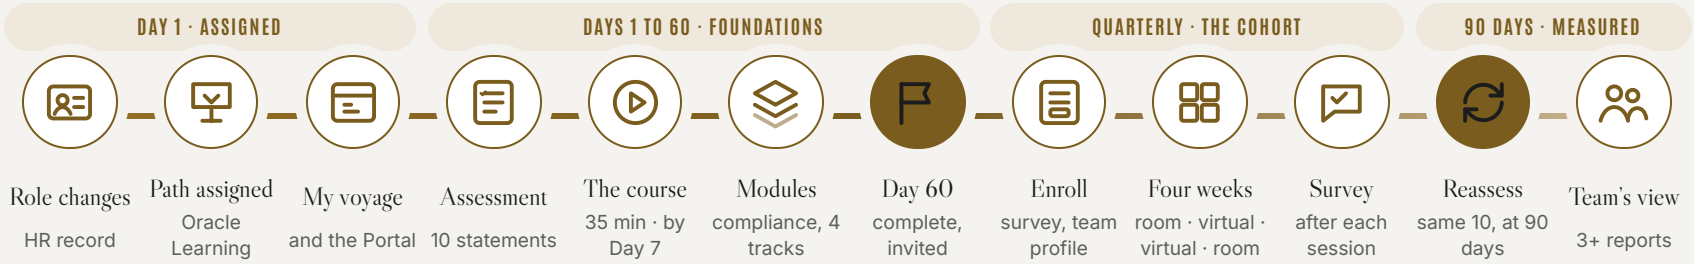

Manager Portal

FROM DAY 1

Templates, policy links, and contacts in one place, available from the first day onward.

THE JOURNEY

One manager, start to finish.

THE MANAGER PORTAL, OPEN FROM DAY 1 AND NEVER TAKEN AWAY

EACH STOP, IN A SENTENCE

Assigned, Day 1

- Role changes. Oracle HCM shows a management role. Nothing to request.
- Path assigned. Compliance and Manager Foundations land in the learner record with due dates.
- My voyage. The dashboard: what to do now, what comes next, who to call. The Portal from the same day.

Foundations, Days 1 to 60

- Assessment. Ten statements before the course. Results by expectation, on screen and by email.
- The course. You Are a Manager Now, thirty-five minutes online: six topics, live conversations, scored.
- Modules. Legal courses by Day 30, policy by Day 60. Four tracks of short modules in Oracle Learning.
- Day 60. Recorded against the job profile. The cohort invitation goes out.

The cohort, quarterly

- Enroll. The enrollment survey: a seat request and the team profile, four taps that tailor every scenario.
- Four weeks. Week 1 in the classroom, three hours. Weeks 2 and 3 virtual, under ninety minutes. Week 4 the capstone, two hours.
- Survey. Ten questions after every session, most one tap. They shape the next cohort.
- Completion. Four indicators, the Playbook presented, the record sent to the Futures Learning Hub.

Measured, 90 days and after

- Reassess. The same ten statements, invited by email at 90 days. The before and after, by expectation.
- Team's view. Three or more direct reports answer the same ten about their manager, anonymously.
- Always on. The Portal, the HCM and Engagement Consultant by name, an optional six-month pulse.

COMPONENT 01 · REQUIRED · DAYS 1 TO 60

Compliance courses.

The legal and policy courses every manager must complete. Oracle Learning assigns them on the manager's first day, based on the state where their team works. Supervisors complete both the all-staff version and the supervisor version.

Assigned in every location

Foundational Cybersecurity Training · HIPAA Privacy and Security · Addressing Harassment and Discrimination at Vanderbilt · Clery Act · Reasonable Accommodations in the Workplace (managers).

Assigned by state

Tennessee, New York, California, and Florida each add their own harassment-prevention and safety courses, with an all-staff version and a supervisor version.

ASSIGNMENT	Automatic in Oracle Learning when the HR record shows a management role. No enrollment step.
DEADLINES	Courses required by law are due within 30 days; policy courses within 60. My voyage shows the dates and flags anything at risk.
RENEWAL	Most courses renew every year, some every two years where the state allows. Oracle Learning holds the official record.

EVERY COURSE, BY LOCATION

Every location

- Foundational Cybersecurity Training 30 MIN

Delivered through OpenSesame inside Oracle Learning. Each course ends with a knowledge check.

COMPONENT 02 · STRONGLY RECOMMENDED · DAYS 1 TO 60

Manager Foundations.

What Vanderbilt expects of a manager, in three parts completed in order. Also assigned to every current manager.

01

The assessment

BEFORE THE COURSE · AGAIN AT 90 DAYS

Ten statements about what a manager actually does, each one a behavior from the Vanderbilt Manager Standard, rated never to always and scored by expectation. Results on screen and by email. The same ten again three months after the program.

02

The Foundation course

35 MINUTES · COMPLETE BY DAY 7

You Are a Manager Now: six topics, each with one activity. Live conversations with a team member who answers back, scored on what the manager says. Narrated and captioned.

03

The micro modules

DAYS 1 TO 60 · ORACLE LEARNING

Short modules, one common task each, in four tracks. Systems and Vanderbilt & Nashville by Day 30; People and Processes by Day 60.

Completing everything by Day 60 is recorded against the job profile and triggers the cohort invitation.

Component 02 · Manager Foundations, continued.

THE SIX TOPICS AND THE FOUR TRACKS

The Foundation course, six topics

- What a manager is. The one change, three things that are new, who helps you.
- Five ideas. Priorities, clear expectations, psychological safety, purpose, the people work. A live conversation for each.
- Your first year. What Vanderbilt asks for and when, and a three-tap week the manager adds to their calendar.
- The Vanderbilt Manager Standard. The four expectations, Yukl's category for each, the fifteen behaviors on flip cards, a story per expectation, and the map from expectation to assessment statement, then four live conversations.
- Your assessment. The result by expectation, which statements sit under each, and the first move.
- Next steps. One action this week, a note to their manager, course complete.

The micro modules, four tracks

- Systems, by Day 30. UKG for managers; Oracle time off; Oracle HCM team view and approvals; Oracle Recruiting and Onboarding; expense and procurement approvals.
- Vanderbilt & Nashville, by Day 30. The mission and vision; areas of focus; our campuses; Nashville; how we work together.
- People, by Day 60. Employee Relations grounding; EOA reporting duty; FMLA; reasonable accommodations; performance concerns simulator; onboarding a new hire.
- Processes, by Day 60. Performance Management Foundations; giving feedback; compensation and merit basics; flexible work; offboarding and transitions.

COMPONENT 03 · OPTIONAL BUT RECOMMENDED · QUARTERLY

The four-week cohort.

Where skill development happens. One hundred managers a quarter practice the Vanderbilt Manager Standard with their own teams, building on Foundations. Every scenario is tailored to the team the manager runs, hourly or salaried, dining or IT. Open to any manager who has completed compliance and Foundations; Oracle sends the invitation at Day 60.

WEEK 1 · IN THE CLASSROOM · 3 HOURS

What it means to manage

The mission, your voyage on a timeline, the standard sorted from your own week, and the hard conversation out loud: in pairs, then live with Sam.

WEEK 2 · VIRTUAL · UNDER 90 MIN

Goals, 1:1s, difficult conversations

A core module, a SparkWise Learning Lab, the 1:1 that turns difficult with Dev, and Playbook section two.

WEEK 3 · VIRTUAL · UNDER 90 MIN

Coaching and mentoring

A core module, the delegation lab in SparkWise, coach then hand it over with Priya, and Playbook section three.

WEEK 4 · IN THE CLASSROOM · 2 HOURS

The capstone

The standard read back, the performance conversation with Marcus, and five minutes each to present the Playbook and how they will manage.

The Manager Playbook is the through-line: started in the classroom, one section a week, presented whole in week four to peers and the business unit leader. The virtual weeks are each a core module in Oracle Learning, a SparkWise Learning Lab, a ten-minute simulation lab on the manager's phone, and five minutes on the Playbook. The whole workshop runs from one site, with a QR code for every page.

LOGISTICS AND WHAT EVERY PARTICIPANT PRODUCES

Logistics

- Week one. A half day in the classroom, facilitated by the Futures Learning Hub from the cohort site, with timers, talk notes, and a QR code on every page.
- Weeks two and three. Virtual, on the manager's own time, capped at ninety minutes.
- Week four. Two hours in the classroom. Managers present to peers and their business unit leader.
- Seats. One hundred a quarter. Units outside the central budget are billed per seat.

Deliverables

- Manager Playbook. The written personal operating system: philosophy, 1:1 framework, delegation and growth plan, performance practice.
- Integrated Management Model. A one-page model of how the four expectations connect for this manager. Synthesis, not attendance.
- Team Development Plan. A 90-day plan for the actual team: names, goals, growth moves. Challenged by peers and presented in week four.

COMPONENT 03 · WEEK BY WEEK

One expectation a week.

BEFORE

Set your team

Four taps on the cohort site: area, hourly or salaried, size, where they sit. Every scenario rewrites itself. Then the pulse and the first sentence of your Philosophy.

WEEK 1 · 03 MAKE THINGS BETTER

What it means to manage

In the classroom. By the end of the day you can say what your team can expect from you, and you have held one hard conversation out loud.

WEEK 2 · 01 GET THE WORK DONE

Goals, 1:1s, and difficult conversations

Virtual. A 1:1 cadence on the calendar, three goals per person, one hard conversation held with your own team.

WEEK 3 · 02 TAKE CARE OF YOUR PEOPLE

Coaching and mentoring

Virtual. One real decision handed over with the boundary stated, one coaching conversation that was mostly questions.

WEEK 4 · 04 CONNECT YOUR TEAM

Performance, talent, and your Playbook

In the classroom. The Playbook presented, challenged, and heard by the business unit leader, with a 90-day Team Development Plan.

COMPONENT 03 · WEEK BY WEEK

The cohort · Week by week, continued.

EACH WEEK IN DETAIL

Week 1 · In the classroom · 3 hours

ROOM	The mission, fifteen minutes: what your team makes possible, in one sentence. The pulse, first reading.
ACTIVITIES	Your voyage on a timeline, from the work you were hired for to year one. A week of your own work sorted into the four expectations. Which expectation your team needs most, and the habit that serves it.
LAB	The hard conversation, fifty minutes: the three-line frame, a demonstration, pairs, then live with Sam on your phone.
PLAYBOOK	Section 1: Manager Philosophy, written and read aloud to your four.

Week 2 · Virtual · under 90 minutes

CORE	How to Manage Difficult Conversations, in Oracle Learning, 30 minutes.
LAB	SparkWise, 45 minutes: conversation prep with peers. Bring the one you have been putting off; leave with it framed in three lines.
SIMULATION	The 1:1 that turns difficult. Dev has missed two dates and opens as if nothing is wrong. Ten minutes, tailored to your team.
PLAYBOOK	Section 2: cadence, agenda, three goals per person, your opening sentence.

Week 3 · Virtual · under 90 minutes

CORE	Coaching Skills for Leaders and Managers, in Oracle Learning, 35 minutes.
LAB	SparkWise, 40 minutes: the delegation lab and coach or correct. What you will hand off this month, to whom, with what boundary.
SIMULATION	Coach, then hand it over. Priya wants to grow and expects you to tell her how. Ask first; then a real decision with one boundary and a date.
PLAYBOOK	Section 3: one line per person, where they want to be, the stretch assignment, the rung.

Week 4 · In the classroom · 2 hours

RECAP	The four expectations read back against three weeks: what you tried, what held, what did not.
PRACTICE	The performance conversation with Marcus, who expects a promotion you cannot give this cycle. Pairs, then live.
PRESENT	Five minutes each in fours, business unit leaders in the room: the sentence at the center, the team goal, one person's plan by name, the habit you kept. Peers challenge one goal, one move, one date.
CLOSE	The pulse, second reading, beside the week-one answers. The 90-day reassessment date.

COMPONENT 04 · ALWAYS AVAILABLE

The Manager Portal.

One website with every template, framework, policy link, and contact from the course and the cohort. Open from a manager's first day, never taken away, kept current by People, Culture and Belonging.

TEMPLATES	The 1:1 agenda, the three-line conversation frame, the delegation ladder, the Playbook, the Team Development Plan.
POLICY	Leave, flexible work, accommodations, performance, every route in one place with the office it goes to.
BEYOND	Vetted outside resources, each naming its source: podcasts, videos, guides.

WHO TO CALL

Same-day routes and everyday help.

YOUR HCM	Positions and hiring, payroll and timecards, assignments, the first step of leave, costing, records. The first call when unsure, the same day.
ENGAGEMENT CONSULTANT	The bigger people questions: a pattern, a hard conversation to plan, a team dynamic.
LEAVE OFFICE	Health and family time off, including FMLA, and injuries at work. The same day, and never ask for a diagnosis.
EOA	Discrimination, harassment, sexual misconduct, retaliation. Report the same day. You do not investigate.

HOW IT WAS BUILT, AND HOW IMPACT IS MEASURED

A pilot, an expert group, and a measure.

THE EXPERT GROUP

Seven divisions

Subject-matter experts defined the routing rules, the who-to-call directory, and what a manager must be able to do by Day 30 and Day 60.

THE PILOT · MARCH 26, 2026

Fifteen managers, eight units

They completed the full program. Their feedback shaped the current design.

NOW LIVE

Automatic assignment

Compliance and Foundations assigned from the HR record. The Manager Portal open to every manager.

NOVEMBER 1, 2026

Wide launch

Open to all managers across the university, with the first full cohort of one hundred.

REACH	The share of managers enrolled, recorded in Oracle Learning. Target: 80 percent of M1 to M5 managers.
CHANGE	The ten-statement assessment before the program and again 90 days after, scored by the four expectations of the Vanderbilt Manager Standard. Target: each manager improving in at least three of the four.
LATER	An optional six-month pulse, and in a later phase, direct reports answering the same statements about their manager.

How it was built · How impact is measured, continued.

THE OUTCOMES WE EXPECT, AND HOW WE WILL SEE THEM

Engaged

- Managers who understand the role, take ownership of it, and stay at Vanderbilt.
- How we will see it: enrollment and Day 60 completion in Oracle Learning against the 80 percent target; cohort seats filled each quarter.

Supporting

- Teams with clear expectations, timely feedback, and the confidence to raise concerns.
- How we will see it: assessment gains in getting the work done and taking care of people.

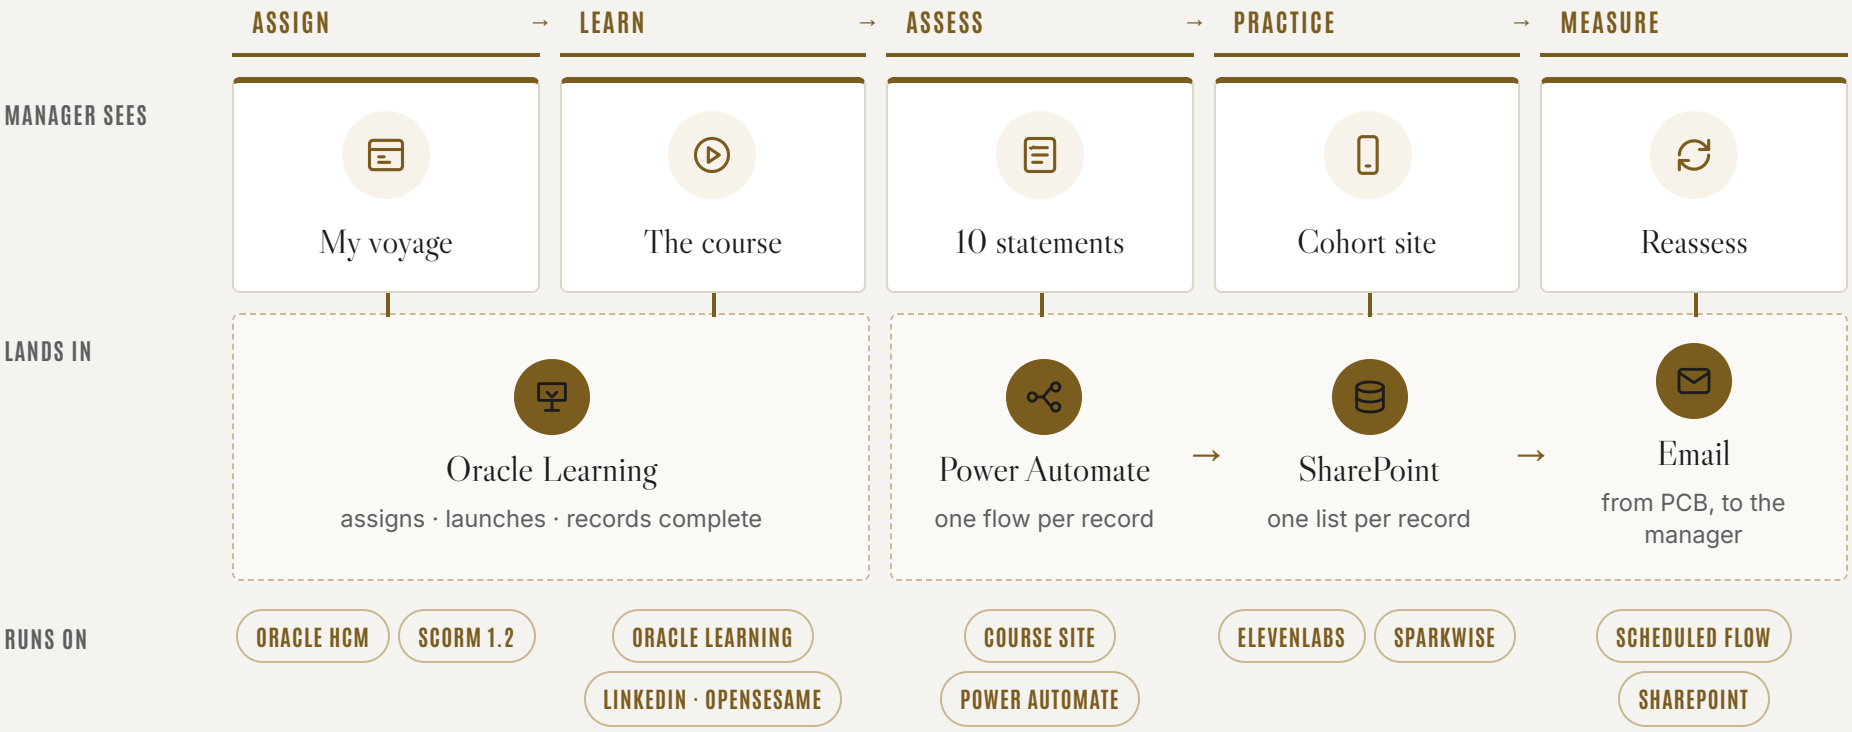

Championing

- Managers who can explain Vanderbilt's purpose in their own words and connect the team's work to it.
- How we will see it: assessment gains in making things better and connecting the team; completion of the Vanderbilt & Nashville track.

The standard and the assessment are adapted from Yukl's taxonomy of leadership behavior (2012): the four expectations are his four categories and the ten statements are ten of his fifteen behaviors. An adaptation for Vanderbilt, not a validated instrument, and not a performance evaluation.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Front stage, back stage.

One static site: GitHub → Vercel, zipped as the SCORM package

Three lists: assessments, surveys, completions

Five voices, scored on the phone, nothing stored

Behind the scenes · The flow and the stack, continued.

HOW EACH RECORD MOVES, AND WHAT IS IN IT

Assign and learn

- Job profile to assignment. An Oracle HCM role change assigns the learning path. The SCORM 1.2 launch passes the learner to My voyage, which reads name, state and start date from the record.
- Completions write back. SCORM reports the course complete to Oracle Learning. The dashboard keeps progress in suspend data so it follows the manager across devices.

Assess, practice, measure

- One record, one flow. The course posts a JSON record to a Power Automate flow: a SharePoint list row and the branded email, in one run.
- Survey and completion. Each cohort survey and each completion posts to the same kind of flow and lands in SharePoint. Lab scores stay on the phone.
- Scheduled invitation. A second flow reads the list, invites at 90 days, and stores the retake beside the first score.

HOW EACH RECORD MOVES, AND WHAT IS IN IT

RECORD	SENT WHEN	HOLDS	LANDS IN
Assessment, initial	The ten statements are finished before the course	Name, email, date, ten answers, total, the four expectation averages, the suggested first move	SharePoint list, email to the manager
Course complete	Every activity in the Foundation course is done	Quiz score, the action chosen for the week, the week built	The same list row, email to the manager, SCORM status to Oracle Learning
Cohort survey	After each of the four sessions	Week, ten answers, team area and type, optional name	SharePoint list
Cohort completion	The four indicators are ticked and the record sent	Segments done, labs held, both pulse readings, the four indicators, the Playbook lines	SharePoint list
Assessment, retake	The 90-day invitation is answered	The same as initial, plus the prior score and averages	The same list row

Team profiles, Playbook drafts, timeline moments and lab outcomes stay in the manager’s own browser unless they choose to send them. Nothing in the cohort is read by a leader without the manager pressing send.

MANAGER DEVELOPMENT JAM SESSION · WHAT WE HEARD

You stated. We listened.

Before Manager Voyage was designed, managers and leaders from across Vanderbilt came together in a Manager Development Jam Session and told us what the program had to do. Five themes came out of that room. Each one shaped a specific part of the program.

YOU STATED

Make it practical.

WE LISTENED

Every activity is a conversation you will actually have, a three-tap week on your calendar, and the templates in the Portal.

YOU STATED

Learn across Vanderbilt.

WE LISTENED

One hundred managers a quarter from 39 units, small labs on someone else's case, and the Vanderbilt & Nashville track.

YOU STATED

Learn by doing.

WE LISTENED

Live conversations that answer back and are scored; each week rehearsed in a lab, then done for real with your team.

You stated. We listened., continued.

YOU STATED

Build the talent bench.

WE LISTENED

Growing people is written into the standard; week three is coaching and delegation; a 90-day plan names each person's move.

YOU STATED

Reinforce how we lead.

WE LISTENED

One standard, four expectations, taught, practiced, and measured before and at 90 days; compliance and the People track underneath.

You stated. We listened., continued.

WHAT EACH THEME CHANGED, IN FULL

Make it practical.

"Give managers simple tools for 1:1s, people decisions, difficult situations, and the everyday work of managing."

Every activity in the Foundation course is a conversation a manager will actually have, and the course ends with a three-tap week the manager adds to their calendar: 1:1s, the team meeting, the monthly and quarterly work, and what to do as needed.

The Manager Portal holds the 1:1 agenda, the three-line conversation frame, the delegation ladder, and every policy route with the office it goes to, from Day 1 onward.

Learn by doing.

"Blend in-person experiences, real scenarios, SMEs, and practice in the flow of work."

The course teaches through live conversations with a team member who answers back, scored on what the manager says. The cohort rehearses each week's conversation in a simulation lab tailored to the manager's own team, then has it for real: one 1:1 cadence set, one hard conversation held, one decision handed over, with the manager's own team.

Subject-matter experts from seven divisions wrote the routing rules and the Day 30 and Day 60 expectations, and fifteen managers from eight units tested the whole program first.

Learn across Vanderbilt.

"Use cross-functional cohorts to build relationships, empathy, and a better understanding of how the university works."

The four-week cohort seats one hundred managers a quarter from across the 39 business units, in small SparkWise Learning Labs that work a live case from someone else's team, with a classroom week one and a capstone where managers present to peers from other units.

The Vanderbilt & Nashville track covers the mission, the areas of focus, our campuses, and how we work together, and Who to call names the people a manager's team depends on.

Build the talent bench.

"Help managers spot potential, create enrichment opportunities, enable lateral and diagonal mobility, and develop their successors."

Growing people and handing over decisions, not just tasks, are written into the standard itself. Week 3 of the cohort is coaching and mentoring: for each person on the team, where they want to be, one stretch assignment, and their rung on the delegation ladder.

The Team Development Plan sets 90-day growth moves by name, is challenged by peers in week 4, and is presented to the business unit leader at the capstone.

WHAT EACH THEME CHANGED, IN FULL

Reinforce how we lead.

"Build shared expectations around collaboration, accountability, sound people practices, and care for frontline staff."

The Vanderbilt Manager Standard: four expectations of every manager, adapted from Yukl's research, the same in every business unit, taught in the course, measured by the ten-statement assessment before the program and again at 90 days, and practiced in the cohort.

Compliance and the People track put sound people practice on every manager's path, and taking care of the people on the team is one of the four categories, not an elective.

THE COMMITMENTS WE MADE IN THE ROOM, AND WHERE THEY LED

Next steps named at the jam session

- Validate internal versus external hiring manager data.
- Invite DAR and Facilities as volunteer pilot partners.
- Present the manager development prototype to VBOM for feedback and further refinement.
- Schedule the next session to review and refine the prototype.

How the program keeps listening

- The pulse survey before week one and again at the capstone, and the week-four recap, where managers say what happened when they tried it.
- The ten-statement assessment before the program and at 90 days, which shows where the program is working and where it is not.
- Feedback from each cohort shapes the next quarter's design, the same way the pilot shaped this one.

From the jam session to launch
